

Message from the Principal, Miranda House

I am truly delighted that Dadhichi Deh Dan Samiti has taken the initiative to conduct Organ Donation Sensitization Programs across the University of Delhi. This is a much-needed effort, and the importance of the work being done by the Samiti is deeply inspiring. Creating awareness about organ donation—especially among the youth—can lead to real and lasting change in society.

It was a matter of great honour for Miranda House to be part of this noble campaign. The program we hosted on January 29, 2025, in collaboration with the Samiti, was a deeply emotional and enriching experience for all of us. We were privileged to welcome Shri Alok Kumar ji, Patron of the Samiti, whose compassionate and thought-provoking words left a lasting impression on our students and faculty. His message about the nobility of donors and the legacy they leave behind truly moved everyone present.

The event brought together voices from diverse walks of life—academia, civil society, and the student community—and included poetry recitations, a vibrant Q&A session, and reflections that showed just how strongly the message had resonated.

We at Miranda House believe that sensitization must go beyond a one-time program. We have therefore committed to hosting this event every year and have established an Organ Donation Chapter within our SDG Club to keep the conversation alive through regular activities such as awareness drives, competitions, screenings, and pledge campaigns. Our aim is to nurture young ambassadors who will carry this cause forward with empathy and conviction.

My heartfelt thanks to Dadhichi Deh Dan Samiti for enabling this engagement and for the inspirational work they continue to do. We look forward to walking this path together in the years to come.

Warm regards,
